China's Fentanyl Selling Machine

Ben Westhoff, author of "Fentanyl Inc." was given a tour in China of their Fentanyl marketing machine: "I was shocked to find this giant company with 100s of salespeople sitting at desktop computers. They all spoke great English. They were basically selling ingredients for Fentanyl to Western Customers. The Chinese Government subsidizes these companies and promotes the work that they do. These people have retirement plans and health plans. It was considered a really good job...except they were selling the most dangerous drug in the world."
